A national tribute is currently being paid to Sergeant Maxime Blasco in the courtyard of the Invalides in Paris. He was killed last Friday during an operation in Mali. The ceremony is chaired by Emmanuel Macron. The head of state will posthumously decorate the soldier as a knight of the legion of honor.

Will the Sanitary Pass be extended until next summer? It is a possibility, says Gabriel Attal. The government spokesperson also indicated that a preliminary bill had been sent to the Council of State and will be presented in two weeks in the Council of ministers before arriving in Parliament. However, the priority for the executive remains the same: to do everything to ensure that the measure ends as planned on November 15.

Now is the time for negotiations among the Greens. The designated candidate of the Greens for the presidential election Yannick Jadot will meet today with Sandrine Rousseau, who has still not called to vote for her former rival. She is still waiting for guarantees, in particular regarding the program that the MP will defend.

An 18-year-old student is in critical condition after being stabbed several times in front of his School of Aeronautical and Space Engineering. This happened this morning in Ivry in Val-de-Marne. A suspect was arrested shortly after. The suspect is a 42-year-old man known by the police for an attempted murder in 2017 in Paris. The individual had been let free under judicial supervision in that case.

It is a 1st in Tunisia but also in the entire Arab world: A woman is in charge of forming a government. Najla Bouden will have to designate her team after two months of political blockage in the country. The Tunisian president sacked the Prime Minister at the end of July, froze Parliament before regaining control of the judiciary branch.

And then to finish: after series and films, Netflix launches video games. The streaming giant wants the services of an American development studio based in California. The objective is to conquer a new market for the platform with 200 million subscribers.
