

The News

January 19th 6pm©

by Noele Bouazouni-Prier

As a tribute to Gaspard Ulliel, Jean Castex's tweeted the following: "It is with a heavy heart that, from now on, we will watch his most beautiful interpretations". The actor passed today at the age of 37, after a skiing accident in Savoie. The Minister of Culture Roselyne Bachelot speaks of an exceptional actor. Gaspard Ulliel had notably won the César for best actor in 2017 for "Juste la fin du monde" by Xavier Dolan.

"You will go down in history as the president of climate inaction", says Yannick Jadot speaking of Emmanuel Macron, after the Head of State's speech at the European Parliament in Strasbourg. Emmanuel Macron presented his ambitions for the French presidency of the EU. French MPs took the opportunity to settle their accounts with Emmanuel Macron on national issues.

In England, Prime Minister Boris Johnson is ending most of the restrictions. From next week, wearing a mask will no longer be mandatory, remote work will no longer be officially recommended and the sanitary pass will no longer be imposed. In the United Kingdom contaminations have dropped by almost 40% in one week.

He finally decided to give up. Arnaud Montebourg confirms the withdrawal of his presidential candidacy. The former Minister made the announcement in a video broadcast on social networks. He regrets not having succeeded in uniting other left-wing candidates around him and decides not to support any candidate.

And in the Tarn, the search continues to try to find Delphine Jubillar. The excavation area has been widened towards the bottom of a valley. A specialized team equipped with metal detectors is on site. According to a fellow prisoner of Cédric Jubillar, the main suspect supposedly told him he had buried the body of his wife in a farm.

And then soccer tonight with three Premier League games. Clermont-Strasbourg, Montpellier-Troyes and Lille-Lorient. Kick-off at 7 p.m.