

The News

April 20th 6pm©

by Noele Bouazouni-Prier

5 years after the famous debate of 2017, Emmanuel Macron and Marine le Pen will meet this evening for this dangerous exercise. Several themes will be addressed such as the environment, youth, or even competitiveness. We already know that it is the name of Marine Le Pen that was drawn to be the first to speak. The debate will be broadcast on France 2 and TF1 from 9:00 p.m. and will last at 2 hours and a half.

And 4 days before the second round, we are already talking about the post-presidential period. At the end of the Council of Ministers this morning, Gabriel Attal specified that the investiture ceremony of the new leader elected on Sunday will take place, at the latest, on May 14.

5 men will be tried for terrorist projects. They planned to carry out an attack near the Elysée. The accused were arrested in 2019 thanks to the work of a policeman who infiltrated the cell. They will soon be judged by the court of Paris

Influenza is finally on the decline in France. This is revealed in the latest report of Santé Public France. Most indicators of the spread of the disease are down after five weeks of continuous increase. Caution, However, all regions are still in the epidemic phase.

Abroad, the extradition of Julian Assange is officially authorized by the British court. The decision was made early this afternoon. The extradition order could allow the founder of Wikileaks to be sent to the United States where he would be tried for espionage. The decision must now be ratified by the UK Home Secretary.

And a hard blow for Netflix: The platform lost 200,000 subscribers worldwide in the first quarter of this year, compared to 2021. This is a first in 10 years. This decline in subscriptions has consequences on the actions of Netflix: At the opening of the markets on Wall Street this afternoon the group had lost 30%.