Will the European Union do without Russian energies? In any case, the discussions to achieve this are ongoing. Emmanuel Macron spoke this afternoon with the Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orban, who is very strongly opposed to the embargo. According to Clément Beaune, the Secretary of State in charge of European Affairs, the leaders of the 27 are in constant contact to move the project forward. Even if there is still a long way to go.

Viktor Orban already spoke yesterday with the European Commission President, Ursula von der Leyen, who reported “progress”.

After more than two months of conflict in Ukraine, the American intelligence evokes the events that will most likely unfold. According to them, Vladimir Putin will probably impose the martial law in Russia to support the war effort. The Americans also think that the Russian president has no intention of stopping in Donbass and could bring the conflict to Transnistria - A region of Moldova which seceded more than 30 years ago.

Also in the news, Eric Dupond-Moretti will probably go to trial for illegal conflict of interest. In any case, this is what the public prosecutor requested. The Keeper of the Seals is accused of having taken advantage of his position to settle scores with magistrates. It is now up to the Court of Justice of the Republic to decide what action to take.

And Emmanuel Macron was at the Luxembourg Gardens this afternoon. The Head of State took part in a ceremony on the occasion of the Commemorative Day for the Remembrance of Slavery and its Abolition.

And to finish, soccer: Manchester City confirms having reached an agreement with Erling Haaland. The Borussia Dortmund star striker will join England this summer. No amount has been communicated.
