His speech obviously did not convince. Emmanuel Macron is still the target of criticism from the left as from the right. The national secretary of the PCF Fabien Roussel remains determined and ensures that he will continue to fight against the pension reform. As for Marine Le Pen, she believes that the Head of State "is ignoring the suffering" of the French. Criticism also came from unions. The general secretary of the CGT, Sophie Binet, says she is "worried about the radicalization of power".

And the inter-union refused to meet with Emmanuel Macron at the Elysée today. On the other hand, the employers' organizations accepted. Three of them will be received by the head of state: The Medef, the CPME and the Union of Proximity Businesses.

Work-related diseases have risen sharply these past ten years in France. This is what emerges from a report by Santé Public France. Occupational diseases are on the rise but remain too often undeclared, in particular because of the fear of losing one's job. It is women who are the most affected. Musculoskeletal disorders and psychological suffering are the most frequently reported pathologies.

What future for Go Sport? In receivership since January, the future of the sporting goods brand is being played out today in the Grenoble commercial court. Around twenty takeover offers have been submitted. Two of them stand out, with limited social damage, according to unions. Go Sport employs more than 2,000 people.

A father and his 14-year-old son died last night in the fire of their home in the Meuse and a 4-year-old child is missing. In total, 8 people were present in the house when the flames spread. Five of them managed to escape and were hospitalized in Verdun, without serious injuries. The origin of the disaster remains unknown, an investigation is underway.

And then soccer with the beginning tonight of the quarterfinals of the Champions League. Napoli-Milan and Chelsea-Real Madrid will start at 9pm.
