

The News

April 27th 6pm©

by Noele Bouazouni-Prier

A march will be organized on Saturday in Rambervil  in the Vosges in memory of Rose, the 5-year-old girl found dead on Tuesday in a garbage bag left in an apartment. A 15-year-old suspect was placed in police custody. He will be brought in the evening to an examining magistrate. Already indicted in the past for acts of rape and sexual assault, the alleged murderer suffers from an alteration of discernment. He also presents a danger to others according to the results of a psychological expertise.

He was the man of all freedoms. These are the words of Emmanuel Macron as he paid tribute to Toussaint Louverture, who was a figure in the fight against slavery. The Head of State spoke this afternoon from the Ch teau de Jou in the Doubs, where the Franco-Haitian general - former slave who was later freed - was imprisoned until his death in 1803. A little earlier today, Emmanuel Macron went to the market of Dole in the Jura for a surprise visit during which met with a few locals.

The Minister of Ecological Transition was in the eastern Pyrenees today - A department hit hard by a historic drought. For Christophe B chu, this crisis situation could last beyond the summer.

There is a new tool to facilitate procedures. Justice.fr is the name of the application launched today by the chancellery. Available for free download, it helps locate a place of justice near your home or even immediately finds useful numbers such as those for victim assistance. From the fall it will also be used to download an extract of a criminal record - a document necessary in many administrative procedures.

And then basketball, with the second match this evening of the quarter-finals of the Euroleague. Monaco will be playing against Tel-Aviv; knowing that the Monegasques were beaten Tuesday evening for the 1st confrontation. The game begins at 8:15 p.m.