

The News

June 8th 9am©

by Noele Bouazouni-Prier

There is an ongoing kidnapping alert to find an 8-year-old girl who disappeared in Dunkirk overnight from Tuesday to Wednesday. She could be with her 40-year-old father. If you have any information, call 197.

Separately, the lifeless body of the 29-year-old woman who was taking care of the young girl was discovered yesterday. The other three children are safe and sound.

Also in the news, the pension reform is back today in the National Assembly. The bill of the group Liott to revoke it is being examined by the MPs. However, Yaël Bruan Pivet, the President of the Assembly, ensures that she will declare inadmissible any amendment aimed at restoring the retirement age at 62.

After a meeting deemed "disappointing" with the Minister of Education, Pap Ndiaye, Lindsay's mother believes she was very well received yesterday by Brigitte Macron. The first lady offered to be an ambassador to fight harassment. The 13 years old girl committed suicide last month in Vendin le Vieil in Pas-de-Calais, because she was the victim of school harassment.

Only a few hours are left to complete your tax return on the internet. If you live in the departments numbered from 55 for the Meuse, to the overseas territories, you have until midnight this evening to complete your return on the website.

In Ukraine, President Volodymyr Zelensky deplores the absence of humanitarian aid from the United Nations and the Red Cross, after the destruction of the Kakhovka dam in the south of the country. Thousands have been evacuated. Emmanuel Macron spoke with Volodymyr Zelensky and announced last night that help will be sent to Ukraine.

Finally tennis at Roland Garros: Casper Ruud defeated Holger Runeuh last night. The Norwegian will therefore face Alexander Zverev tomorrow in the semi-finals.

And the women's semi-finals are today at 3 p.m. The 2nd world player Aryna Sabalenka will face the Czech Karoline Muchova who is 43rd. The other semi-final will oppose Iga Swiatek to the Brazilian Beatriz Haddad Maia.