

The News

November 9th, 9am ©

by Emma Phillips

Schools in 74 municipalities of Pas-de-Calais remain closed today and will also be closed tomorrow as the département is on red alert for rain and flooding and the rivers Aa and Liane are also on red alert for flooding.

To mark the national anti-bullying day, all school pupils will be provided with a questionnaire today to determine whether they are the victims of bullying. The answers will help inform government policy on how to address the problem.

Last night, members of the Senate voted to delete article 3 from the new immigration bill which had been a point of contention between the government and senators from the Républicains party. This article had provided to legalise the living situation of undocumented workers in high demand industries.

In Hollywood, after 118 days of strike, a deal has been reached between actors and the studios. The strike had brought Hollywood to a halt, with several release dates of series and films pushed back. Actors had been asking for better pay and working conditions, particularly when it came to the introduction of artificial intelligence.

And finally, today France's football manager Didier Deschamps will unveil the team line up for the Euro 2024 qualifiers in Gibraltar and Greece. This could be the time to call on Warren Zaire-Emery, a 17 year old mid-fielder who has proved a hit with Paris Saint Germain since the start of the season.