

The News

December 27th 6pm©

by Noele Bouazouni-Prier

Currently wind gusts are reaching up to 100kmh and heavy rain is falling with Storm Gerrit between France and the United Kingdom. Several Breton and Normandy departments have been placed under yellow alert for violent winds. The storm is expected to continue its path across France until the New Year. It will affect the country from Charente to the Grand Est in the coming days.

Also in the news, the hearing of the father suspected of the murder of his wife and 4 children in Meaux is underway. Known for acts of domestic violence and psychiatric disorders, he is heard by investigators and seems cooperative according to certain police sources. His police custody was extended. The bodies of the 5 victims are undergoing autopsies.

A column to denounce Emmanuel Macron's support for Gerard Depardieu. The text is signed by around a hundred people and published in the Journal Le Monde. The text criticizes the words of the head of state, guest of the show C à vous on France 5 last week, where Emmanuel Macron had recalled that the 74-year-old actor, indicted for rape and accused by a dozen women is a source of pride for France - end of quote. The signatories deplore that the president gives his support to a famous actor rather than anonymous victims.

"It's a Christmas present for corrupters". These are the words of the Anticor association on X, formerly twitter. This reaction follows the announcement of the state to not renew its approval granted to the NGO. However, this authorization is necessary so that it can take legal action in cases of corruption and breach of integrity. Several political figures have expressed their support for Anticor.

And tourists are deprived of the Eiffel Tower today because of a strike among some of the employees. A social movement which owes nothing to chance since today we celebrate the centenary of the death of Gustave Eiffel.